THOUGHT and COMMENT

LODGES

Better citizens, better husbands and better fathers are being made every day by a silent forward moving power, represented by the various fraternal organizations, which are ever engaged in the furthering of movements to improve their members, morally, spiritually, socially and physically.

A primary purpose among many of these organizations is the social enjoyment of its members and a characteristic is found in its secret, charitable and benevolent contributions that not only affect the immediate membership, but everyone coming in contact with members of the organization.

To inculcate a system of pure morality, by forms, ceremonies and symbolism in which the relief of the suffering, the cultivation of the virtues, and the search for truth is emphasized in the principal objective of practically all of the organizations. The non-sectarian charitable work, the activities among the poor at Christmas time and the Americanization work among the foreign born is part of the work that practically every fraternal organization has taken upon itself. Charitable institutions are frequently, partly and in many cases entirely supported by the fraternal organizations of a city.

Richmond is today entertaining such a fraternal organization. Although the events taking place here today are primarily for the enjoyment of the members of the order that is putting on the celebration this is only one part of the organization. Richmond bids welcome to the Scouts and expects them to enjoy themselves while here.

DOWN FUNERAL RITES TODAY

Funeral services for Mrs. Nina Down who passed away at the family home Thursday morning at the age of 77 years will be conducted from the Bert Curry funeral chapel this afternoon at 2 o'clock. Mrs. J. Joslyn of the San Francisco Unity Center will conduct the services at the chapel.

The services which will follow at the Berkeley Crematory will be conducted by the Eastern Star. Mrs. Down was a pioneer resident of Richmond having lived here for the past twenty-two years. She was the wife of the late Fred Down and the mother of Mrs. W. L. Larrabee of 443 Tenth street.

She was prominent in fraternal organizations being a member of the Acantha Chapter O. E. S. and the Women's Benefit Association.

DRYS APPEAR BEFORE SENATE TO ENCOURAGE ENFORCEMENT

Spend one Hundred Million If Necessary to Enforce Law Witness Tells Senate Com.

JOHN T. LAMBERT
(By Universal Service)
WASHINGTON, April 16.—The United States ought to spend $100,000,000 a year if necessary to teach the criminal gang, bootleggers and moonshiners that it is big and strong enough to enforce the prohibition law to the hilt, Ernest H. Cherrington, General Secretary of the League against alcohol, today declared to the Senate Judiciary Committee as the drags began their first onslaught for tightening of the Volstead Act.

A nation that can afford to spend $700,000,000 a year in time of peace for support of its army and navy can well afford to spend more than $100,000,000 to enforce the prohibition law, which has brought such vast benefits to our people," Cherrington asserted.

"Don't surrender to the violent element which scoffs at our laws, but show them that this country can and will enforce every law," he declared.

Before an audience that jammed the committee room to the doors the dry forces of the nation declared their stand for stricter enforcement all along the line and not for modification of the law.

In an effort to prove that the attacks made upon prohibition by Cardinal O'Connell, Hayes and Mundelein represent neither the universal view of the Roman Catholic hierarchy nor Catholic people of the country, Bishop James H. Darlington of the Protestant Episcopal diocese centered about Harrisburg, Penn., declared that prohibition is receiving the full-hearted support of the Catholic officials and laity there.

"Father Curran in the mining district, Bishop McDevitt and Cardinal Dougherty of Philadelphia are heartily to be commended," declared Bishop Darlington, "and I want to pay tribute to the way the Roman Catholic church is supporting the law."

Colonel Patrick H. Callahan of Louisville, speaking for the association of Catholics favoring prohibition, asserts that the ruling officials of the church in Kentucky are strongly divided upon the issue. Many of them prefer to avoid public discussion of it, he said, because they regard it solely a political issue.

In a stirring attack upon the evils of the old saloon, Edward Keating, editor of "Labor," official organ of several hundred thousand trade unionists, declared that "the same liquor interests which have a generation failed to obey any law, are now seeking to restore their traffic again under cover of a demand for wine and beer."

The one and only trouble with prohibition is the failure of those charged with the enforcement of the law to adopt a policy of militancy," he declared.

"We need militant enforcement by men in sympathy with the law. Pious gestures and wholesome neutrality will never do. Until you have men of that type you will have the law flouted."

"It is a gross libel upon the American people to say they are whiskey-drinking, lawless, gross and corrupt."

"We are the richest and most powerful nation in the world. We have the greatest body of workers, man for man and woman for woman, to be found anywhere. There is no country where living standards are so high although in some cases too low a standard exists."

"We are the only country that has raised a Chinese wall around itself, to keep people out. People are trying to break out of other countries and break into this country."

"There is no need to tack up a great mass of statistics to show that at least some of the benefits that have resulted from the greatest nation in the world are the result of prohibition. The facts stand in unanswerable refutation against the tendency of the way to blame upon prohibition every existing evil from murder to housemaid's knee."

Wayne H. Wheeler, who, though Captain-General of the drags, was content to occupy an inconspicuous role in the day's proceedings, submitted to the committee a statement in which he asserted that all the proposals for beer and wine submitted by General Edge, Congressman John Philip Hill and their associates would run afoul of the constitution.

Mrs. C. D. Rogers of 535 Nineteenth street was slightly injured at San Francisco yesterday. Mrs. Rogers was stepping from the curb at Market and Montgomery street when she was struck by an automobile driven by Donald Brown, of San Francisco. Mrs. Rogers was rushed to the Harbor Emergency hospital, where it was found that her injuries were not serious.

While Washington's (D. C.) population has increased 30 per cent since 1916, the number of telephones has increased 115 per cent.

FIRST STEP FOR CLEANER NEWSPAPERS IN LONDON

(By Universal Service)
LONDON, April 16.—A first step toward cleaner newspapers was taken here today when the House of Commons by vote of 222 to 3 passed the second reading of a bill regulating reports on divorce and separation suits.

The bill limits newspapers to the publication of names and addresses of the parties and witnesses with a brief statement of the grounds of the proceedings. The legal point, the judges summing up and observations in giving his verdicts. The bill thus eliminates unsavory evidence.

RICHMOND MAN TO BE MARRIED AT FOOD SHOW

A public wedding tomorrow night at the Oakland auditorium during the closing events of the second annual food and household appliances show, staged this week by the Retail Grocers' Association of Alameda county, in which a Richmond man will be the bridegroom, is announced as the feature of the evening.

Edward E. Hansen of Richmond will wed Miss Jean Booth of Los Angeles on the main stage of the auditorium. The wedding will take place at 9 o'clock and immediately following the ceremony the various exhibitors at the show will shower the young couple with wedding gifts, including all sorts of household appliances and food stuffs. A special cash award will be given by the management of the show.

Hansen is 24 years of age and the son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Hansen of this city. Miss Booth is 23 and has been residing with her parents in Los Angeles. She is well known in University circles in the southern city, having attended the southern branch of the University of California.

The food show, which closes tomorrow night with the wedding, has had a record attendance during the week, the auditorium being packed every evening, and a record crowd for every afternoon. The show has been conducted under the personal direction of A. A. Trempe of Alameda. There are more than 200 exhibitors.

A record crowd for the week is expected tomorrow evening. It will be Richmond night, incidentally, and all retail grocers of Richmond will be in attendance as guests of the Alameda county grocers. It was a coincidence, however, according to Trempe, that Hansen and his bride-to-be should have been selected as the lucky couple, for, falling as it does on the evening designated as Richmond night, there will be many of the bridegroom's friends present.

A cooking school is being conducted at the show which has in attendance daily several hundred women. Some special features for tomorrow's final session have been arranged and Richmond women who wish to attend are requested to be present at 2:30 o'clock.

Radio artists from KTAB entertain every afternoon and evening at this evening. The San Francisco Ensemble will be the feature attraction. Tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 o'clock Mme. Dorothy Regen Talbot, famed coloratura soprano will sing. The Sterling Trio will render instrumental selections.

A feature of the closing night will be the distribution to the public of all food samples and food supplies remaining on hand. Everyone who attends the show is promised a package of food stuffs free.

WITNESSES ARE RECALLED IN LIQUOR TRIAL OF WILLIAMS

General Court Martial Board Trying Marine Officers Starts A Virtual Re-Trial

By RALPH WHEELWRIGHT
MARINE BARRACKS, San Diego, April 16.—The general court-martial board headed by Rear Admiral Thomas Washington today continued its determined search for the "true facts" concerning the charge of drunkenness brought against Col. Alexander S. Williams by Brig. Gen. Smedley Darlington Butler, and the famous "cocktail" case went into the state of a virtual re-trial.

The court ordered the recalling of Marine officers who have already given testimony for both sides. The suggestion of "dregs" projected into the proceedings proved a formidable wedge in clearing the way for new testimony.

Casting aside the cautious tread that marked his earlier appearance on the stand, Capt. Charles E. Rice, Post Adjutant, related to the court the part he played in Gen. Butler's formulation of the charges against Col. Williams. The Captain gave outspoken evidence that served as a severe blow to the defense.

The now famous "Williams cocktail" sank to the level of a common mixture of gin and orange juice in the opinion of Capt. Rice. The Captain represented himself as more or less an "expert" on such matters. He testified, any one might easily slow away "a dozen or more" without being materially benefitted as far as a glowing potency is concerned.

If Col. Williams was drunk, Capt. Rice said, he must have (Continued on page 4)

FLORIDA IN SCREEN DEBUT AT CALIFORNIA

Florida—with its bathing girls and auction sales has made its screen debut and been brought to you via the silver screen. It's all in Tom Meighan's latest Paramount picture, "The New Klondike," which opened at the California Theatre, last night.

From what one is able to gather this modern southern state would seem to be in quite a flurry of excitement. People sleep on the sidewalks and fight on the identical pavements—all in the search and hunt for gold. It is a repetition of the "old Klondike" in a new setting, with brains being used instead of bullets.

The star is seen as Tom Kelly, a baseball pitcher who is bound for Florida and the training camp. On the way, he meets Lila Lee who is going to visit her grandmother, and get rid of some property.

Arrived at camp, Tom is surprised to find that Cooley, his manager, has had him discharged. There is only one reason. Cooley is jealous of Tom's superior knowledge of baseball, and because of his being so close to Colonel Dwyer, the team's owner.

Despondent, and not knowing what to do, Tom accidentally becomes involved in a real estate deal. Soon he has made more money than he thought existed in the whole world. He drives up to go to ball field and orders the team to flash a deed which shows him to be the rightful owner.

Other features on the same program include "Flaming Flappers," Glenn Tryon comedy; "Felix Nabs His Head," Felix the cat; "Moon," "International News," "Fry Canelo at the organ."

Heidelberg Confers Degree On Professor At Northwestern University For His Activities

(By Universal Service)

EVANSTON, Ill., April 16.—Neapolitans say "see Naples and die." But Prof. George Oliver Curme of the department of Germanic languages at Northwestern University can die happy without seeing Naples, Washington, Paris, London, or any other of the beautiful cities or natural scenic spots of the world. He could possibly be happy without seeing Heidelberg again.

But it was Heidelberg, the ancient and revered seat of learning in Germany that brought the crowning glory of a lifetime of toil to Prof. Curme tonight. The degree of Doctor of Philosophy was bestowed on him by Prof. Johannes Hoops, who came here from Germany for that purpose.

The degree was given in recognition of the grammar of the German language written by Prof. Curme. The grammar has been proclaimed as the only book of its kind, worthy of an advanced student.

Publishers refused the book when it was first written. But the professor had faith in his work and he mortgaged his home and published the volume himself. Now it brings him a modest income and it has brought him an honorary degree from Heidelberg.

There were tears in the eyes of the old professor tonight as he walked down the aisle of the little chapel here.

Dressed in the black cap and gown that he has worn on commencement day for forty years, he slowly approached the platform.

There was a silence for a moment during which a pin dropped to the floor could have been heard.

Then there was a deafening roar as the applause of the faculty members and the few select students broke forth.

The old man tall and erect despite his 67 years, tried to smile—and he did smile, but it was through his tears—tears of joy.

And sitting down near the front was a little woman, gray, pretty—the kind of a woman you would like to call "mother." She is his wife. And she was as happy as her husband, for she has shared his troubles and trials throughout his life.

"The Cowboy and The Countess" at Richmond Theatre

"The Cowboy and the Countess," the Fox Films production starring Buck Jones which opened at the Richmond theatre last night has all the required ingredients of a thrilling Western picture and then some!

The action is swift, sure, natural and logical—and all of the situations are real. So real in fact, that one forgets it is only a picture and feels with the actors as they fight and ride across the screen.

The story is decidedly original, with just enough comedy sprinkled through it to make the production interesting. Buck Jones is Jerry Whipple, the handsome young owner of the Boot Jack Ranch, who follows lovely Elsa Verlane to Europe. To save his dignity he takes his entire band of cowboys with him, and gives very successful performances in the various capitals of Europe.

Then just when things look blackest for Jerry, Nanette, Elsa's maid, brings him a message from her mistress which galvanizes him into action. His big advantage in Europe comes after his hasty visit to the Verlane chateau—and the end of the story comes in the midst of thrilling action.

Buck gives one of the best performances of his screen career in "The Cowboy and the Countess," completely upsetting the old theory that one does not have to act when one is an energetic Western hero.

Helena D'Algy, who plays opposite him, also does credit to her part, while Diana Miller, as the little French maid is exceptionally clever. Others in the cast who give particularly good performances are Harvey Clark, Jere Austin and Fletcher Norton.

Other features include "Step Lightly," a Lige Conley comedy, "Felix Nabs The Flames," a Felix the cat cartoon.

LABOR NOTES

The weekly session of the Central Labor Council of Contra Costa county was held on Wednesday night at the Labor temple with President E. W. Rogers presiding.

The minutes of previous meeting were read and approved. Credentials from the Barbers' Union No. 508, for brother James McDonald were received and the new delegate was initiated.

COMMUNICATIONS

Following in the summary of the more important communications acted upon by the council:

From the Barber's Union a request to declare B. Lazare's barber shop, 117 Macdonald avenue, on the "WE DON'T PATRONIZE" list of our council. G. Zanes, the owner of the said restaurant, ignored our request to meet with a committee of our body.

The organization committee asked the council to forward the following communication: (The request was granted.)

PIONEER LAUNDRY CO., Oakland, California.

GENTLEMEN:-

In soliciting work in Richmond, drivers represent your laundry as a union concern. Now, we are informed by the Alameda County Union representatives that your employees are not organized.

We are appealing to you for the proper enlightenment on this matter. Yours truly,

C. C. C. Central Labor Council, Jules Scarceriaux, Secretary.

Brother Charles Kates who was unable to attend our meeting, sent a summary of the co-operative news. The same was ordered forwarded to the Labor Journal.

REPORTS OF UNIONS

Sister Viola Cox stated that the Laundry Workers' Union had initiated three new members and had elected a new vice-president.

The Mokelumne Water Co., is asking 90 welders and, according to brother Huitberg, numerous are the boiler makers who have accepted employment with the said company.

The barbers have been 100 percent organized in Richmond for a great many years. Their president brother Quinlan hopes that Lazare, now the only non-union barber in town, will soon realize the importance of his pledge when he joined the barbers' union, and thus change his newly adopted policy.

The delegates of other unions reported progress. Brother Martin O. Hauge, business representative of Contra Costa County Carpenters Unions, submitted a progressive report on the strike situation in the building trades. "Contractors said Hauge, "will soon come to the conclusion that after all it would be cheaper for them to employ union help. True skill and efficiency are to be found among the latter."

There was a lengthy discussion on various plans under good and welfare, but without any final agreement.

The meeting adjourned at 10 p. m. to meet again April the 21st. Respectfully submitted, Jules Scarceriaux, Secretary.

3 ROADS OPEN TO EASTBAY AND MT. DIABLO

Closing of the Tunnel Road to the Berkeley Hills to automobile traffic pending the completion of repairs to that route still leaves roads open to motorists desiring to travel to the Eastbay region from points in Central and Northern California, and to the Mount Diablo country from the west, or the coast.

These three routes are illustrated in the accompanying map and include as possibly the shortest, the so-called Orinda road which connects with the Tunnel Road at Bryant terminating at San Pablo, near Richmond, thence into Berkeley.

Next in length as to mileage is possibly the Crow Canyon road which connects the town of San Ramon with Hayward. The longest route is probably the Franklin Canyon road which connects Martinez with the State Highway at a point immediately north of Pinole.

Mileages over any one or all of these routes will be longer or shorter depending upon the starting point of each motorist, but generally they will be as above indicated.

Motorist from points in Central California who are interested only in driving to the summit of Mount Diablo need consider only such connecting points as Concord, via Willow Pass west of Pittsburg, the Marshall Canyon road which connects Byron and Concord and the Livermore Valley road which terminates at Dublin. The north gate to the mountain may be reached via Walnut Creek and the south gate via Danville. Both routes to the summit are open and in splendid condition.

BARREL HOUSE IS FORMING A STRONG TEAM

Will the Barrel House of the Standard Oil Twilight League cop the pennant this year? That is a question that Rod Allen, husky manager of the team is trying to do out.

Allen will be fortunate this year in having a trio of pitchers that are well above the average. As usual Lefty Cothran will do most of the mound work. Lefty has plenty of smoke but is rather temperamental. If he can control himself and his curse, temperment, he will outpitch any chucker in the league.

Buttischbach will be another chucker for the Barrel house. Buttischbach started some time ago with the Barrel house but he got into a rut of leaving a left handed batter smack him over the lot. Last year he was with another team in the league and was the steadiest pitcher possible. Buttischbach is good, and this year he should be even better.

T. Carter pitcher is a new man into the league and whether he is good, bad or indifferent is yet to be seen. So far his team mates report that he has a wicked left arm.

B. Vianno will be the man in the iron mask with Ahern, a new comer ready to relieve him.

Rubke, will be in the infield this year; Gardner a former St. Mary's star will handle the first sack; Artie Schimpff will hold down short stop; Ernie Pettrus will handle third as of yore. Ernie packs a sweet wallop; Johnny Hutton will stock in the outer garden; Harry Bonham will flower in center and Fitzgerald will stick at left.

Harry Nelson is being moved to outfield and several new men have been added. Among them are Chappy, outfielders who is reported to know his onions; R. Kress, a babe from the sticks who is supposed to be a real infielder and Ahern, who will be able to relieve his partner, Vianno in the pinches.

Landis Says There Is Keener Interest In Baseball Now

(By Universal Service)
CINCINNATI, April 16.—There has been a keener interest in baseball this spring than ever before, said Judge K. M. Landis, "Chicago high commissioner of baseball" who arrived in Cincinnati today to attend the National Baseball Federation's convention and deliver a speech here tonight.

"Who do you pick to win the pennant in the National League, Judge?" He was asked. "I don't know," he replied. "I think the race will be a nip-and-tuck affair among several clubs. Most all of the teams in both leagues took to be greatly improved this year. Anyhow, I must be neutral."

"If you can beat me at checkers you'll get it," replied Mrs. Anna Berlis' husband when she imported him for a new dress. This happened two years ago in their home in New York City. Mrs. Berlis learned the game so well that soon she was able to replenish her wardrobe. Since then her fame has spread throughout the country and few experts can beat her. She has to her credit a draw with Alfred Jordan, recognized as the world's best checker player.

T. C. STANFORD TODAY
Today sees the track and field meet of all meets, the University of California will go up against Stanford at Palo Alto in what is expected to be the best meet ever staged on the Pacific coast. California faces the odds of what appears to be a superior team while Stanford will have to do some tall hustling to keep up to the standards that she has set during the season.

ST. MARY'S COLLEGE OF PAC.

Another track and field meet is scheduled for today—the St. Mary's track and field team will meet the College of the Pacific at Stockton, the first time that the two colleges have met at track. Coach Smithson of the Saints is confident that his men will more than break even with the rival team.

HYLANDS MAY BE OUT

On the eve of all big college events something is announced that either the faculty has declared a star athlete ineligible or that the coach has announced that the star has injured his leg. If this is so and Hyland is unable to appear in the 100 yard dash, the Cards will have a big loss.

ESPINOSA AND JOE NOVACK
Abe Espinosa and Joe Novack, well known by region golfers, have been in the 18 hole qualifying round of the California medal play for the open championship. More than 100 golfers, both amateur and professional, have entered this event, which is being staged at a club course in Los Angeles. The championship 36 holes will be staged on Sunday over a tricky grass course that may bring out some of the best battles ever seen.

FANS RAZZ SEALS

Get a team to lose one or two games or stay at the bottom of the league for the first few weeks of play—then listen to the home town razz. This is happening to Bert Ellison and his San Francisco Seals. Day after day the fans are watching their support from the San Francisco Seals to the Mission team. Too bad for Ellison, he helped his team to the pennant last year and now he is without Hal Ryhne and Paul Warner, who were sold by the owners and were not replaced.

High Diver Puts On Exhibition Here

Al White, holder of the world's record for high diving, was at the municipal natatorium on Thursday night and gave an exhibition of fancy diving. His visit was unexpected so many people missed the event.

White declared that he was well pleased with the local pool.

Dying Father Writes 17 Birthday Letters for Guidance of Little Son, Now Only 5 Years Old

The above photograph shows the late John S. Stevenson, who was a borough recorder of Vineland, N. J., and his little son Dick with Fred Dunn, his father's close friend. Stevenson was killed during the war and was operated on three times, the last operation being fatal. Three months before his death he wrote 17 letters and arranged with Dunn, who was named as executor of his estate, that one letter be delivered to Dick on September 30 of each year, his birthday, and one letter on his wedding day. His purpose was to direct the boy's footsteps until he is married.

Witnesses Are Recalled In Liquor Trial

"taken a few fast jolts" all by himself and suffered a rapid decline. The witness fixed the length of time in which he judged the Colonel passed from a condition of absolute sobriety to one of "unsteadiness" as approximately two minutes.

He admitted making a remark at the hotel Coronado that "the Colonel is getting it" and also said he had told a brother officer later that he was "glad I didn't let the Colonel drive his own car because he might have killed himself."

"What conversation did you have with Gen. Butler regarding the case?" the court asked the witness.

"He asked me what I thought of the party. I didn't say anything and he said, 'Allie' Williams was drunk and that I knew it. He told me not to get excited or flustered about it and to tell him the truth."

"I said that Col. Williams had appeared to be intoxicated, he snapped back, 'now no hedging. You know he was. Now was he drunk or not, yes or no?'"

"I finally admitted I thought the Colonel was drunk and he said, 'that's the stuff! That's what I want!'"

"I did not have to change my first statement."

When asked by the court to tell why he had driven Col. Williams to the Coronado hotel in his car, the witness replied that the Colonel's car was too small and he offered the use of his machine for the convenience of the guests.

"What was the condition of Col. Williams when he entered your automobile?" he was asked.

"He appeared perfectly sober. When I reached the ball room after parking my car, however, Col. Williams appeared drunk. I was astounded and couldn't understand it. I didn't see how it was possible for him to have gotten drunk inside of two minutes."

"Of course, I figured then he might have gone off and taken on a few fast jolts straight and it knocked him. But I hadn't seen him take a drink and though he hadn't taken any."

The statement made by Capt. Rice to Gen. Butler regarding Col. Williams' condition was admitted into evidence and the witness was excused.

Capt. C. B. Cates was called from the defense table this morning to take the witness stand for the third time.

The officer faced a severe grilling at the hands of Admiral Washington concerning conflicting reports of what he told Gen. Butler of Col. Williams' condition.

During his examination, Capt. Cates doggedly charged that the General had not quoted him correctly in his testimony. At no time had he said Col. Williams was drunk, without qualifying his remarks.

Under cross-examination, Capt. Cates vigorously denied he had been drinking intoxicating liquor on the day or night of the "cock-tail" party.

Heroic efforts were made by the Judge advocate to learn who mixed the famous cocktails.

The nearest they have come to the identity of the mixer is the

HEEDED MOTHER'S ADVICE

Oakland, Cal., Feb. 26, 1926.
For more than a year I suffered from hemorrhage from a tumor. During this time I was treated by several physicians, all of whom agreed that an operation was the only thing that could help me. Neither my husband nor I liked the idea of the knife. Upon the advice of my mother who, after having an operation on the right side, the wound forming a fistula which had never healed for 14 years, had found complete relief and fistula healed by drinking the Fong Wan Herbs, I decided to try them. Owing to my terrible condition and my extremely poor health, it took about six months before I was entirely well. I am now in splendid health and my old trouble has been completely vanquished.

WHITE MAN AND NEGRO TO BE HANGED

(By Universal Service)

CHICAGO, April 16.—Two men who will die on the gallows here at ten o'clock this morning, showed a striking contrast in emotion during the hours before the death march began.

One, a white man, cringed in a corner of his cell and wept. The other, a negro, laughed and joked with his guards. He posed jauntily before newspapermen and jail officials as though proud of the leading role he played in this weird drama.

Raymond Costello, the white man, will hang for the murder of his 16-year-old sweetheart, Madeline White, Charles Hobbs, the negro, dies for slaying Betty Barnett, his landlady.

Shortly before midnight Costello was visited by his mother and father, a baby brother and his common law wife, Mabel Patterson. He clung to his mother during most of the visit and begged her to believe he was innocent of the crime for which he must die.

Hobbs' only visitor was a man about his own age with whom he used to "buddy."

"Sure, I killed her," said Hobbs. "I choked her, that's me."

One weeping, protesting his innocence; the other laughing, boasting of his crime. Thus these two men marched to the gallows.

Burg Robbed of $26 Within Few Feet of Officer

At the point of a revolver, Cecil Burg, son of E. A. Burg, Sr., Richmond realtor, was forced to drive past a watching policeman in Berkeley Wednesday night and was robbed of $26 by the bandit.

Burg had just started to drive away from his service station which he had closed for the night when the burglar jumped into the machine and leveled the revolver at him ordering him to drive away. The policeman standing near the curb was unaware of the bandit's intention.

After driving about the neighborhood, the bandit robbed Burg of the money and fled. Burg returned to the officer and reported the robbery, but no clue to the burglar was found.

Banana Eating Champ is Found

EVANSTON, Ill., April 16.—Yes we have some bananas. We have innumerable bananas in fact. And on top of all that the champion banana eater of the world has been discovered.

The champion eater is Miss Frances Westcott, a pretty co-ed at Northwestern University. It is her painful duty in the interests of art and the theatre to eat one dozen bananas at each and every performance of "shoot to kill," a play to be presented at next week at the university. There will be 432 bananas used during the shows.

Quarter of the Nation's Seed Corn Worthless

Practically one quarter of the seed corn in the United States is worthless and will not germinate, according to survey of the results of seed corn tests made over the entire nation, is the statement issued today by Samuel R. Guard, director of the Sears-Robuck Agricultural Foundation, whose field observers have just completed a summary of the seed corn situation.

"A survey of the results of this national wide test," said Guard, "indicates that 23.5 per cent of the seed corn is dead and unfit for use and that only 76.5 is viable. In the Central Corn Belt states only 71.4 per cent is fit to sow, while in the Southern and Pacific Coast states the viability is much higher, as might be expected. The worst spots in the country are found in the Northern and North-western Corn Belt.

"The Foundation has continually impressed upon the corn growers the imperative necessity of testing their corn before planting, and in connection with the present situation again urges the farmer who is raising corn to test his seed corn before putting it in the ground, in the interest of more efficient production."

Corn has declined to a new low level for the crop year, says the Agricultural Index of the Foundation. Demand from feeders has been restricted purchases by industries have not increased commensurate with commercial supplies and the constant accumulation at terminals gradually overwhelmed speculative buyers. The visible supply is nearly 37 million bushels, and the large reserves back on farms assure ample receipts during the rest of the crop year. Requirements from March to October, inclusive, in the past five years have averaged only 1,554,000,000 bushels. Owing to the reduced live-stock population, the amount used during the past winter was below the average and values cannot be expected to improve materially until a better balance between corn and live-stock is attained, declares the Foundation.

Two Are Found Dead In Parked Car at Chicago

(By Universal Service)

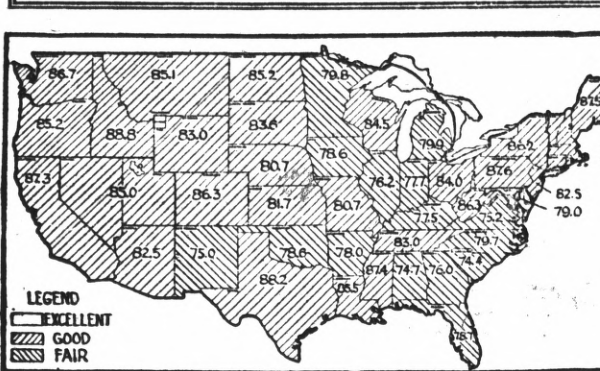

CHICAGO, April 16.—Early solution of the murders of Jacinto Tuccillo and Frank De Laurentis, whose bullet riddled bodies were found in a deserted automobile in south Chicago yesterday morning, was predicted by the authorities today after they had located a witness who told of seeing the men kidnaped.

The witness, whose name was kept secret, told of seeing the men deliver alcohol to a well known south-side saloon. The saloon was in the district served by the powerful Salts-McElrath gang.

It was 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon, police learned, when the alcohol delivery was attempted. According to the witness, a touring car pulled along side of the delivery truck and four men commanded Tuccillo and De Laurentis to enter the touring car. They sped away.

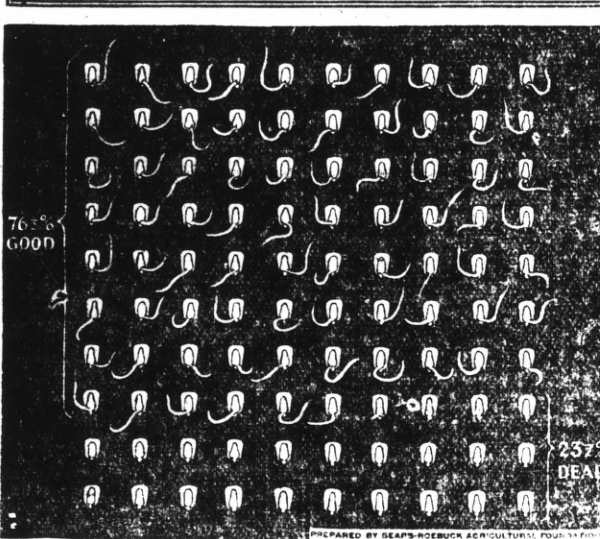

The slain men were known to have been ward workers during the late primary campaign and it was at first believed they were the victims of a political feud.

Examination of School Children To Start Monday

Dr. E. R. Guinan and Dr. G. M. Baumgartner will conduct the first of the series of physical examinations, which will begin Monday in the Richmond Health center for the children who enter the various schools in August or the following January. The children planning to enter the Lincoln school will be examined Monday, beginning at 9 o'clock.

The following is a statement issued by the school department in regard to the examinations to be conducted during the next two weeks.

"When we take into consideration that so much of a child's success in life depends upon health and habits, we know that it is unfair to him if he is not put in the best working condition, for otherwise he will derive very little benefit from his schooling. It is unfair to other pupils who are held back by the slower progress of children, who if put in good order, would do better work."

"It is a waste of energy on the part of the teacher who must labor with dull tools that could be sharpened to a degree. It is a waste of public funds to permit teachers to work with pupils who cannot profit as much by her efforts as might be the case if their bodily condition were improved. In a word, it is a waste of time and money for all concerned not to see that every little human machine is given an over-hauling upon his entrance to school."

The question: "Why are children absent from school?" are, from recent studies upon the child problem, known to be caused from physical conditions.

"In answer to the first question: More than 79 per cent of all absences are due to medical problems, more than one-fourth being due to common cold and nearly 40 per cent to respiratory disturbances. Boys and girls seem to be absent equally for all causes."

"To the second question: Delinquent children are always under par physically according to all research, surveys, criminal records. Our surveys of past years show that physical condition are due mostly to glandular and nutritional disturbances which can be benefited by early attention."

"Parents are urged and invited to bring their children for examination. Although there is nothing compulsory about it as it is not a State law, yet, all communities that are doing anything for child welfare, are conducting a similar survey and parents whose children have undergone examination during previous years pronounce them very valuable."

Fear is Felt for Safety of Wife Of Fratricide

Fear that Mrs. Carmela Titoni, wife of Vito Titoni who was captured by Richmond police near El Cerrito following the slaying of his brother Jacomino as a climax to a quarrel, will commit suicide because of the grief and fear of her husband was expressed yesterday by neighbors of the woman in Berkeley. Mrs. Titoni disappeared Wednesday after leaving her three eldest children with neighbors and taking her three-months-old son with her.

In the city jail, Titoni grief-stricken with remorse begged the authorities to hang him immediately. He told of a bitter quarrel, previous to the one in which he slew his brother during which his brother threatened him with an axe. Titoni said that it was because of these threats that he carried a revolver with him when he went to see his brother Jacomino. He claims that he shot Jacomino after the latter had drawn a knife and rushed at him. He was captured by the Richmond police who had received a description of the slayer.

One of the artistic living rooms of the Fong Wan Herbalist, who has combined the American and Chinese ideas in furnishing his beautiful home.

Conditions Different in China

It goes without saying the the Ancient Chinese Herbalists who laid the foundations of Herbal Science knew nothing of the conditions under which people in America live at the present time or of the ailments consequent thereon. This explains why many Chinese Herbalists of the present age who are well-versed in the learning of the ancients and who have administered herbs successfully in China, but who are unfamiliar with American methods of living, are unable to cope with many of the diseases from which Americans suffer.

The reason why Fong Wan has been so successful during the past decade is that in addition to working steadily, he is educated in both Chinese and English and is thoroughly familiar with the customs and habits of the American people. Many years ago he discovered that several of the ailments which are common among the people here in America are seldom found among the Chinese in China. In order to relieve these cases it was necessary for Fong Wan to go beyond the learning of the ancients and work out original formulas to meet the new conditions.

Early in 1916 Fong Wan discovered that Americans suffer from many kinds of Stomach Trouble that are practically unknown in China. The cases of Mr. Wm. de Morny and of Mr. Ira Butler were among the first of these with which Fong Wan came into contact. Since that time Fong Wan has permanently relieved hundreds of other cases of Stomach Trouble that were peculiarly American.

Fong Wan attributes these American varieties of Stomach Trouble to four principal causes.

First, to the eating of an abundance of fruit that contains more or less acid. This causes the blood in the walls to become inflamed, an upheaval results. In other words, either small eruptions, called Stomach Ulcers, or larger ones, called Cancers, appear, also causes grating sensation together with an empty feeling.

Second, to the frequent use of highly seasoned foods and spices, thus inflaming, congesting and poisoning the blood. Sores break out on different parts of the body, cankers come in the mouth and pimples appear on the face.

Third, to the use of liquor. Chinese liquor is entirely different from liquor in America. Chinese liquor is distilled from the steam of rice. When the liquor thus obtained is seasoned with herbs or with other substances, it takes a variety of names, and is used for various purposes. For instance, Ng Gar Py, of which a shipment was recently seized in San Francisco, relieves Rheumatism. Rice nourishes the Stomach and Spleen. Therefore, when one has taken a cup of Chinese liquor and the alcohol effect has passed off, the nourishment afforded by the rice and the herbs remains to strengthen the system. Consequently no bad after-effects are experienced. The effect of drinking whiskey or wine is totally different. Whiskey is made of wheat. It takes the air strength out of the lungs and forces the blood and air to circulate downward. After the alcoholic effects have gone, there is a depressed feeling. Wine is made of the juice of the grape. After the alcoholic effect has been overcome, there is an empty grating sensation in the stomach coupled with a nervousness of the entire system.

Fourth, to the drinking of too much water. Cold water soaks and chills the food that the heat of the blood in the stomach cannot digest it. Hot water opens the pores and causes excessive perspiration, thus weakening the system.

Rejuvenated

Richmond, Cal., April 2, 1926.

For more than a year I suffered from Rheumatism and Neuritis. I also suffered from Constipation, and there was a pain in my chest that ran around to my back. My left arm pained me so that I could not use it at all.

Despite my advanced age I did not give up hope of getting better. I went to FONG WAN and drank his herbs for about two months, discontinuing last June, when my troubles had all been overcome. I am stronger all over and am still feeling fine in every way.

Because of the wonderful results that I obtained by drinking the Fong Wan Herbs, I am glad to give this testimonial to the FONG WAN HERB CO.

To relieve the suffering of women is far more difficult than to cope with the ailments of men. This is due to the fact that women are more delicate than men and their cases more complicated. Nevertheless thousands of women have been restored to health by the Fong Wan Herbs. Among the latest testimonials received by the Fong Wan Herb Co. from patrons of the feminine sex are those of Mrs. L. Duarte, 95th Ave., East Oakland, Mrs. E. Dickey, 1426 Grove St., Oakland, Mrs. E. C. Guerra, 78 Front St., Pittsburg, Calif., and Mrs. E. W. Chamblin, 2224 McDev Ave., Berkeley. The public is cordially invited to visit the beautiful home of the Fong Wan Herb Co., and inspect the stock of pure, fresh herbs.

RICHMOND PREPARES WELCOME FOR VISITING SCIOTS

SEA OF BLUE AND WHITE TO GREET SCIOTS

Macdonald Avenue, Business Houses and Halls are Decorated for Big Ceremonial

A sea of blue and white, interspersed with the flags of the Nation and the Sciots, that is Macdonald Avenue today, for Richmond is in festive garments to welcome the thousands of visitors who are here for the massive ceremonial.

The Red White and Blue; the white flag of the Sciots with the insignia in black, gold and red and the blue and white bunting of the Sciots colors presents a colorful background for the parade, dances and other entertainment arranged by the various committees to celebrate the fete.

The same decorations are used for the social side of the celebration. At the Richmond clubhouse, the Bank hall, the Odd Fellows hall and the Masonic hall where dances will be given, the decoration committee have employed the same bright combination of festive colors.

The Lincoln school grounds will be flood-lighted tonight for the massed band concert in which six bands will take part and the electrical committee has arranged novel lighting effects for the ceremonial and other parts of the program.

The women assisting the committees have arranged floral decorations for the reception at the Roosevelt auditorium, where the ceremonial will take place; at the headquarters in the Richmond clubhouse and at the various halls, where the dances will be given.

Merchants of the city have decorated their stores and have arranged special displays in honor of the Sciots.

The decoration committee is composed of Roy Wells, chairman, assisted by W. W. Scott, Ed Hoffman and James A. McVittie.

COMMITTEE OF LOCAL SCIOTS ARRANGE PLANS

Local Committees Have Been Working Hard to Arrange for Big Celebration

Details for the Sciots' ceremonial have been planned and perfected by the various committee working during the past weeks and everything points to a smoothly running program for today's featured entertainment. The committee have profited by the slight hitches in other programs and have toiled to remedy these by confining their efforts to the details of the ceremonial.

Chairman of the committees and their assistants in whose hands the program rapidly took shape have held numerous meetings to discuss the plans and work out ideas. In their work, they were greatly helped by the ladies who eagerly aided in those finer details of the social side often overlooked by the men.

All plans have been completed and a perfect program for today's events is anticipated by the Richmond Pyramid, hosts to the Sciots from nearly every section of Northern California.

As there is no hall in Richmond large enough to accommodate the thousands of guests who are here for the celebration, the committees have arranged the program to take place in four halls and if this will not be sufficient, they have prepared the program so that two additional halls will be added to the ones already secured.

The following is the list of committees with the chairman and the assistants:

Executive Committee: George Lohr, chairman; Homer Patterson, William Smiley, A. Burdick, William Barry, Lud Johnson.

Parade Committee: W. P. Cooper, chairman; Lud Johnson, Grant Miner, E. W. Bull, Charles Morissette, Al Paulsen, E. A. Hoffman, Dan Cox.

Reception Committee: Aubrey Wilson, chairman; W. W. Scott, R. X. Tucker, James Hitchcock, Capt. R. V. Shirley, J. P. Strom, E. W. Bull, Henry Johnston, Harry Ellis, Judge C. A. Odell, James Walker, W. T. Helms, Frank Scholes.

Ladies' Assistant: Mrs. H. Baker, W. Smiley, J. H. Hitchcock, R. Spierisch.

Entertainment Committee: William Barry, chairman; Fred La Molne, John Battaya, Jack Coward.

Publicity Committee: George Imback, chairman; Al Paulsen, R. H. Spierisch, Aubrey Wilson.

Refreshment Committee: Harold Purviance, A. Curtis, Tony Papadikes, F. S. Hodson, M. Martin.

Housing Committee: Clarence Johnson, chairman; Carl Alexander, Charles Morissette.

Ceremonial Floor Committee: Lud Johnson, chairman; Barney Allichis, M. Marshall, Dr. E. M. Whaley.

Decorations Committee: Roy A. Wells, chairman; W. W. Scott, E. A. Hoffman, J. A. McVittie.

Parking Committee: Dan Cox, chairman; Al Paulsen.

Truck Committee: Ed. Lambricht, chairman; Herbert Baker, J. M. Smiley.

Electrical Committee: Barney Allichis, chairman; George Edwards and Lee Stout.

Ladies Committee: Mrs. George Bengley, chairman; assisted by the following women, who will be chairmen of the sub-committees: Mrs. J. W. Smiley, the Richmond clubhouse; Mrs. Jesse Hitchcock, the Odd Fellows hall; Mrs. Carl Alexander, Roosevelt auditorium; Mrs. R. H. Spierisch, Bank hall; Mrs. Baker, the Masonic hall; Mrs. Lud Johnson, refreshments; Mrs. Daniel Cox, parade; Mrs. H. Ellis, decorations at the Richmond club and the Masonic hall, and Mrs. George Lohr, the information desk at the Richmond clubhouse.

Toparch of Richmond Pyramid

George Bengley Toparch of Richmond Pyramid No. 42 Ancient Egyptian Order of Sciots which is entertaining 3,000 visiting Sciots and their ladies at a ceremonial and entertainment to be held here this evening.

SPECTACULAR PARADE WILL BE SEEN HERE

Sciots bands, and drum corps together with a number of brightly colored and spectacular floats will feature the dazzling parade of the Richmond Pyramid of Sciots to-night when the height of the gigantic celebration is reached.

Promptly at 7:15 o'clock to-night, the parade, the most outstanding spectacular event of the Sciots celebration, will form on Tenth street south of Macdonald Avenue. Eight divisions, composed of the members, bands and drill teams of the various pyramids, will take part.

Visitors Will Be Received Here By Reception Group

The reception committee, which is headed by Aubrey Wilson will face a tremendous task this evening, that of welcoming the visitors and making them feel as if they were in their own home town, instead of a town that they know very little about. Wilson's committee will be picked with much discretion, for the reception committee will give the thousands of visitors their first knowledge of Richmond and a good reception means that they will like this city.

It is up to Wilson's committee to do themselves proud and to make those visitors see what real Richmond hospitality means. This is a job for no handshaking and hail fellow well met business will make them like the city and the Sciots. They will want to feel the inner feelings of the city—that they are welcome as the much talked about prodigal son.

There is no doubt that the committee can do this. They will welcome the tremendous crowds at the halls and will show them how the Richmond Sciots welcome brother members and families.

The committee that is assisting Wilson includes: W. W. Scott, who will give his welcome in the official capacity of mayor; H. X. Tucker, Jesse Hitchcock, Captain B. V. Shirley, J. P. Strom, E. W. Bull, Henry Johnston, Harry Ellis, Judge Odell, James Walker, W. T. Helms and Frank Scholes.

But let us not forget the ladies who will welcome the lady visitors. They will make the fair visitors welcome and soon place them with that "homey" feeling. The ladies who will assist the reception committee include: Mesdames H. Baker, W. Smiley, J. H. Hitchcock and R. Spierisch.

History Of Organization Of the Sciots

Origin of Sciots in San Francisco in 1905 is an Interesting Story

(FROM SCIOTS JOURNAL)

In 1905 a number of Master Masons met in the Mission Masonic Temple in the city of San Francisco for the purpose of forming a club where Masons could be organized for the purpose of furthering Masonic teachings and applying in a practical way the precepts of our great fraternity.

As a result of this meeting, the organization of Boosters was formed, a constitution and by-laws adopted, which vested the government of the organization in the Council of Twelve. The head was called the Kahlil al Malik, which honor was conferred upon Charles H. S. Pratt, with whom the plan originated.

The idea took immediate hold among Masons. It was recognized that such an organization filled a long felt want. It fostered the true spirit of our fraternity, caused men to forget their worries, troubles and cares of life, and made them look on the bright side of things, giving them new hope and incidentally, helped them in their business affairs. Their slogan was "Boost One Another."

In January, 1910, the name of the organization was changed to Sciots. At that time it was evident that provisions would have to be made to spread the order wherever Masonry is known.

The government of the organization was changed from a Pyramide of Twelve to a Supreme Pyramide, with power to establish Pyramids wherever a sufficient number of Master Masons could be found to support such an organization. The following preamble was adopted:

"To bind closer the ties of the Masonic Brotherhood, to promote the well-being and elevate the conditions of its members, to widen the field and increase the harvest of brotherly love, to cultivate the social and fraternal field and increase the happiness of those who are or may become members of it, to provide for the government and lay the foundations of a permanent, fraternal and social organization and teach the divine lessons of true Americanism."

At this time the official designation of "Ancient Egyptian Order of Sciots" was adopted. The government of the order is vested in the Supreme Pyramide, which meets annually in November. During the interim, the Pharaoh is in absolute authority, and his ruling prevails as the law of the order, until modified or set aside by the supreme body.

The Supreme Pyramide is composed of the original members of the Boosters and the elected representatives from each pyramid. The organization has been continued from that time until at the present there are in California 32 Pyramids, with a combined membership of 17,000.

ITS PURPOSES

The purpose of the Order of Sciots is: First to impress upon its members, the fact that they must not neglect their Masonic duties.

SCIOTS FROM ALL SECTIONS TO BE PRESENT

Richmond Will be Host to More Than 3000 Sciots and Their Families Today

Sciots from all over the state will be here at the ceremonial tonight. They will take part in the parade and the ceremonies that will be staged at the Roosevelt Auditorium. With them will come their wives and families—all out for a good time and to enjoy the hospitality of this city.

From every town that has a pyramid they will come. Some will come by private train, others on special boats, in fact every means of transportation except the air—all coming to see Richmond and what it has to offer to them.

Before two o'clock today it is expected that Macdonald Avenue will become crowded with machines while the highways will be blocked with traffic. Today is the day of days and Richmond is eagerly awaiting the coming crowds of visitors.

Before many hours have passed there will come the toot of the sirens announcing that the carloads of visitors are coming and then as the dusk settles down will come other toots telling that the Sciots' parade of all parades will start.

Richmond will have on its Sunday go to meeting clothes this day in honor of its distinguished visitors. From little Johnnie to big brother Bill the city will be out to welcome them.

Word has been received from the pyramids telling that they will be here somehow, even if they have to walk.

San Francisco pyramid will be present in full regalia, ready for the frolic. They will bring with them their band and drill team, the best that the country has.

Oakland is coming full force and promises to add a touch of color and glory to the parade and ceremonial.

Alameda with its official Sciots' band and drill team will show the world how a good drill team snaps into it.

Berkeley will be on hand with its backers, all ready to see Richmond stage an event that is worth walking a thousand miles to see.

Another town that occupies a good portion of the map of California will lend their efforts to make the affair a success—the San Jose drill team and delegates—all out for a good time. They will come here by special busses chartered for the occasion.

For months San Mateo has had a sign in their meeting place telling the members not to forget the seventeenth and Richmond. San Mateo will not. They are coming with as many delegates as possible.

Antioch will send its delegates down the road to Richmond.

From the south comes Watsonville with its troupe of Sciots, ready to see what Richmond offers.

Then from the North comes Eureka, full fledged, ready for everything.

Another city from the north adds its quota, and that city is (Continued on Page 11)

Organization of Sciots Pyramid In This City Marked a New Epoch In the Masonic Life of Richmond

On March 29, 1924 the Richmond Pyramid of Sciots No. 42, was installed in Richmond, marking a new epoch for the Masons in this city.

With tremendous and amazing ceremonies, witnessed by Sciots from all over the state, the Richmond Pyramid came into being, the fond brain child of a group of local Masons, who were doing their best for the good of this community.

At this time over a hundred and fifty Masons joined the ranks of the Sciots.

From that time on the local Sciots have been busy organizing. No big event has marked the young career of the local Sciots, this is the first event that the Sciots have staged that will bring all eyes to Richmond.

The local Sciots have transacted their routine business and staged their entertainments and have visited the many Pyramids about the state, telling that Richmond is up and doing.

The first officers of the lodge were Harry Ellis, a past master of the Masons, who was installed at the ceremonies at the Roosevelt Junior high school on March 29, 1924. Ellis was the first toparch of the local body. Robert M. Travers, one of the founder of the local organization was installed as Mobib; Albert J. Hall, armorer; Lud Johnson, postophori; H. A. Chapman, scribe; A. C. Burdick, chancellor; Carl Alexander, James Walker, L. C. Dexter, L. F. Moore, Homer Patterson, trustees.

These were the original officers of the lodge and through their efforts they started the Sciots of Richmond along the path that leads to success as a body and the brotherhood of men.

The Richmond Pyramid is out of its baby days as the ceremonial night will show. Pyramid No. 42, is coming to the fore, showing what the local body can do for the good of the community.

This event will be one of the stepping stones to success.

In a few years, the Richmond Sciots will be THE organization of the state and the community is backing them, wishing them all of the success in the world.

The officers for 1925 were: Robert M. Travers, Toparch; Henry M. Caivert, mobib; John W. Smiley, armorer; Homer W. Patterson, postophori; Harry F. Chapman, scribe; Albert C. Burdick, chancellor; George T. Lohr, Jr., proclamar; John J. Coward, marshal; Louis F. Moore, mazaral; Henry Westhofer, klazchi; Richard K. Spiersch, Chief of the Me; George W. Bengley, sub-chief of the Me; Kenton W. Firman, captain of the guards; Samuel Korb, standard bearer; George Black, Keoku; Leonard C. Dexter, James Walker and Carl Alexander, trustees.

The present officers are—George W. Bengley, Toparch; Homer W. Patterson, Mobib; John W. Smiley, Armorer; George T. Lohr, postophori; Harry F. Chapman, scribe; Albert C. Burdick, chancellor; William Barry, proclamar; Alfred C. Curtis, marshal; Richard H. Spiersch, Mazal; George A. Black, Klazchi; Lud Johnson, Chief of the Me; Barney Allochis, sub-chief of the Me; Kenton W. Firman, captain of the guards; Samuel Korb, standard bearer; Harry L. Ellis, Leonard E. ## THE SEQUEL TO ECONOMY

Coolidge economy must become an American habit and not a mere passing impulse. There are a few optimistic spirits who have rather assumed by reason of the extraordinary gains made in the economical and efficient administration of governmental functions, that the tale has been told and that nothing further remained to be done. The recent passage of a tax-bill with the cuts which it provides in the taxes to be paid by all the people has given stability to that impression. The gains made in tax reduction have apparently created in the minds of some congressmen, mainly democratic, the impression that what was saved should be spent. As a result a multitude of bills are before congress calling for expenditures which completely wipe out all of the savings made by the Coolidge program.

Representative Tilson, of Connecticut, House Leader, has already noted this situation, and has served notice on his fellow members that the organization method. Able as the congressman is, he cannot do ation of the house is strgly opposed to this grab-bag it all. What is now needed is a new and public assertion of the desire of the people that the old spirit of thrift and decent administration be continued. With reasonable backing from the taxpayers the public expenditure bills will vanish like snowbanks in the sunshine.

The attitude of the congressmen who have introduced these measures is based upon their feeling that the people approve of the spending program. Once it is made plain to them that governmental expenditures for all of these reductions are still regarded as far too high by the average taxpayer, they will develop an equal earnestness in smothering the measures which they introduced with the purpose of meeting what they thought were popular demands. We must remember that after all the margin between a federal surplus and a federal deficiency bill is none too large.

FOUR BILLIONS FOR VETERANS

Occasionally the statement is made that Uncle Sam is neglecting the soldiers of the World war. The records show, however, that the United States has appropriated more than four billion dollars for allowances and benefits on account of soldiers, sailors and marines who participated in the war with Germany. The subject show the following interesting items of appropriations recently gathered by the Washington Post on appropriation:

Military and naval family allowances are $298,000,000.
Military and naval compensation amounts to $1,037,000,000.
Insurance and receipts from insurance are $1,068,000,000.
Administration amounts to more than $293,000,000.
Hospitalization amounts to more than $385,000,000.
Hospital construction amounts to more than $62,000,000.
Vocational training and sales of articles made amount to more than $719,000,000.
Bonus allowances amount to more than $237,000,000.
Payments of claims amount to more than $38,000,000.
Adjusted service pay amounts to more than $38,000,000.

Some Pages from American History

By VICTOR MORGAN

COLONEL MONTGOMERY'S EXPLOITS

For some inexplicable reason the British lay still until Washington came, then gave him the rest of the year and all winter until spring returned to get his army into fighting shape. It was very difficult for the Americans to get supplies, particularly arms and ammunition, but they came in slowly. Canons were dragged from Ticonderoga. The hardy, danger-loving seamen took to privateering and seemed to enjoy it. They intercepted supply ships and even transports bound for Boston. Boston harbor was often full of armed vessels, nevertheless food and munitions intended for the British regiments at Boston frequently found their way to General Washington's camps instead. One can imagine how uneasy the British commanders in Boston felt, and yet they hesitated painfully what to do.

Now in the autumn Colonel Montgomery, gallant young Irish soldier who had served under Wolfe at Quebec, led a continental force northward through the wilderness; took the forts which guarded the northern approaches to Lake Champlain, and occupied Montreal. The little garrison left the place in boats to make its way down the river. Montgomery then pushed forward to join Colonel Benedict Arnold, who was at the gates of Quebec. Colonel Arnold had forced his troops from the coast through the thick forests of Maine and along the icy streams of the Kennebec and the Chaudiere. It was a bitter journey and he lost about a third of the little force with which Washington had sent him forth. These two young commanders loved danger, and all who followed them were touched by their own indomitable spirit. In the darkness of the night which preceded the last day of the year 1775, amidst a binding snowstorm, they attacked the defenses of the place and would have taken it, but Colonel Montgomery lost his life before they gained their final foothold within the walls.

Even though unsuccessful, every added operation of the Americans added to the feeling of isolation and uneasiness among the British at Boston.

PASTEL SHADES ACCENTED IN EMBROIDERIES FOR LITTLE WOMEN

Their Frocks, However, Follow Vogue of White After the Manner of Grown-up Models

By MONA MULLEN

THE dressmakers in Paris who devote their time and genius to the creation of children's clothes have evidently decided to follow the vogue of white that is featured in fashions for grown-ups, compensating for simplicity of design by the introduction of delightful bits of color in the form of embroidery.

No needlework that requires more than a few hours to complete is sanctioned by Paris for the embellishment of youthful modes. A great deal of cross-stitching is used in connection with smocking, lazy-daisy and outline stitches. Either of these three alone, or in combination, can always be relied upon to give a charming touch of decoration that is in keeping with the simplicity of childhood.

The little dress pictured is developed in crepe roma, because it launders so well. It is adapted to reproduction in almost any fabric, however. The embroidery is done in two shades of pink and blue. In addition to the embroidery the front of the dress is hemstitched, the stitching forming a shaped yoke half as deep as the frock itself. The hem is also hemstitched, but mothers have the alternative of using plain hemming here on account of lengthening the dress next season.

The dress may be worn sleeveless with armbands adjusted in the armholes, or sleeves may be added, as preferred. The bloomers, made of the same material, have the neck gathered in front, then finished with a French fold to correspond with the armholes.

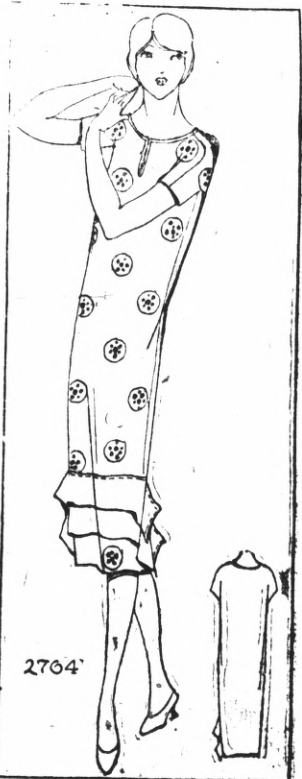

Embroidered Bloomer Dress of Crepe Roma.

Deducting $606,000,000 for receipts leaves a net amount spent by the government of more than $3,800,000,000 for the veterans.

Why Girls Go Back Home

CATHARINE BRODY

Copyright 1926 by Warner Bros. Pictures Inc.

"Why Girls Go Back Home" with Patsy Ruth Miller is a Warner production from this novel.

SYNOPSIS

Clifford Dudley, matinee idol, receives his boredom while "touring the sticks" by firing with a remarkably pretty country girl, Marie Downey. As innocent as pretty, Marie natively follows him to New York. Clifford heartlessly ignores her; figures on how to get rid of her permanent Sally Short, an actress who befriends Marie and gets her a chorus job, warns her Clifford is dishonorable—and even Marie's staunch little heart begins to lose faith in the handsome actor.

CHAPTER IV—(Continued)

The group at Marie's table had their fluffy dancing costumes already hooked up, their make-up on, and were lolling around a newspaper. Marie manoeuvred her way gently to her end of the table, the girls drawing closer, with their arms on one another's shoulders, about the paper. They were laughing, giggling and reading bits aloud.

"What do you know about old Dudley, the stage's greatest lover?" screamed one.

"How old is that guy anyway," demanded another, "isn't he over forty?"

"Naw, what's on your mind? He can't be over thirty. I knew that bird when he was a chorus man in 'So This is Paradise,' and that was only—only—"

"Ten years ago, if a day," pronounced another voice maliciously.

The two girls turned on one another. There was usually an argument of some kind in the dressing room. But this one was nipped in the bud by the powdery arms of a balloon, "Is he goin' into the sticks for them, too?"

The tall girl shut her book. Her voice called languorously.

"Take my advice, sweetheart, and lay off actors. If you must have a sure-enough daddie, catch a millionaire."

"Clifford doesn't exactly keep you in luxury, does he, Marie?" another voice inquired.

There was a burst of laughter as the girls looked at Marie's neat, cheap little blue dress, so the pride of her heart at home, so worn and contrived here.

Marie turned at last, with tears trembling down her cheeks, and the flushed face and shaking body of a terrified little animal at bay.

"You're—your—liars!" she gasped. She turned to Queenie, shaking, but with head erect.

"Clifford and I are engaged to be married."

"Well, fer cryin' out loud!" bawled the tall girl.

Queenie's hands with laughter, her hands on her hips, her body swaying.

"Get that, kids? Do you get that?"

But the other girls paused, abashed by the tears, taken back by the earnestness. One of the girls, pitying, made a move to put her arm about Marie's quivering shoulders, but Marie drew away.

"If you don't believe me," she cried at Queenie, "ask Sally."

This time there was entire silence. The girls looked at each other, wondering and half-believing. They knew Sally Short. If she was in on it, this was no monkey business. A tall girl near the door, who had kept her eyes and ears open and her mouth shut, hugged her kimono about her at the last words and slipped out of the room.

"Congratulations," breathed the tall brunette. "I hand it to you. Anyone who can get Clifford Dudley—"

It broke the spell. With laughter the girls resumed their dressing, shrugging their shoulders. It might or might not be true, they should worry. That was that!

Eyes blinded by a wet film, Marie's hands groped along the table. She swayed and began drowsily to repair the damage.

Out in the hall the small chorus girl had seized the show's press agent, her very dear friend and her most severe critic, and to him she was telling a tale, which caused him to open his eyes and give a grin and a hug.

"You're a cute little sneeze," all right," he exclaimed, finishing the hug with a kiss which savored of alcohol. "And for this I even marry you—if the old lady ever gets her divorce."

The little chorus girl slipped happily back to her place, and as she dressed she hummed a merry tune to the effect that she loved him, she loved him, and that was all that she could say.

CHAPTER V

Sally and Marie retired that night with none of the chatter and delay which characterized their usual preparations for bed. They had separate causes for uneasiness. Sally, having had a heart-to-heart talk with the stage manager, was planning for the imminent closing of "Pretty Polly" with special reference to Marie. She knew Marie hadn't been able to save a cent and hadn't nearly enough self-sufficiency to trot out and grab another job in competition with all the little, hard-faced, way. It never occurred to Sally to desert Marie; but all the same, she could not help wondering. Most of the revues and winter musical comedies had by this time, the middle of autumn, already been cast. For herself Sally could go out on the road at any time, but then—what of Marie?

As for Marie, taking sidewise glances at Sally's absorbed face, she decided wrongly that Sally was annoyed with her, and for fear of widening the breach she kept up broken silence.

Naturally they were primed to rise in the morning with dull, cross feeling after a troubled sleep. It did not help matters any that at the time, to them, god-forsaken hour of nine the telephone by Sally's bed released peal after peal of its jangling in her ear. She reached for it crossly.

"Hello, hello, hello," staccato. "May I speak to Miss Marie Downey, please?"

"Who wants her?" barked Sally. A suave voice replied with assurance, "The New York Evening Star."

"The New York Evening Star," cried Sally, starting wide awake at once. "What do you want to speak to her about?"

"We want an interview with her about her engagement to Clifford Dudley, which was announced in this morning's paper, and we want a picture."

"Well, fer cryin' out loud," a voice rose high above the hulla-

REFRESHMENT COMMITTEE TO PROVIDE PUNCH

The refreshment committee will handle a hard job tonight at the ceremonial. It will be up to this committee to provide punch and refreshments at the dances that will be given by the Scouts.

This, on paper, does not seem a hard job, but then when one gets down to facts and bed rock one will find that it is a hard task for the dances will be crowded and the problem of providing enough punch for the large crowds will be one that will take a good deal of figuring.

Harold Purviance heads this committee and he is assisted by A. Curtis, Tony Papadikas, F. S. Hodson and M. Martin.

Only Scots Will Be Admitted to Functions Today

Scots and their ladies will be the only ones admitted to the various functions of the Scots celebration today, according to an announcement issued last night by the executive committee. Admission will be by current Sciot due cards only.

PUBLICITY CHAIRMAN

George Imbach, chairman of the Richmond Pyramid of Scots who has been kept busy broadcasting the news of the ceremonial which is being held today.

George Imbach, chairman of publicity for the Richmond Pyramid of Scots, has been busy for the past month broadcasting the news of the ceremonial. It was mainly through Imbach that the information about events that will take place tonight was broadcast.

Imbach has been working hard for the past week, gathering publicity that is publicity and at the same time is news.

He has been working hard and not too much credit can be given him for the efforts he has expended in making the Scots' ceremonial a success.

All big events need publicity, and a good publicity man is absolutely necessary. The local Scots were fortunate in having Imbach who knew the news and gave it freely.

ROSS W. POOL

Ross W. Pool of Santa Rosa is the Supreme Architect of the State Organization of Scots and will be in attendance at the ceremonies today.

Parking of Cars To Be Directed By the De Molay

One of the hardest jobs in its history faces the De Molay boys of the Richmond chapter of De Molay—this body will direct the parking of all machines at the parking lot at the Roosevelt Junior high school playgrounds.

Think what a tremendous task that this will be and think what a life saver to the Richmond police force they will be.

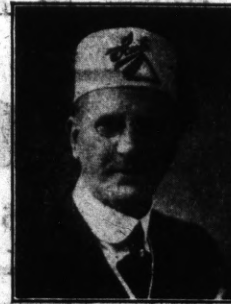

Try to imagine the floods of machines that will occupy the parking ground and each one must be parked in such a way that there will be room for the next fellow. How many machines will the grounds hold? This is the question that only the boys will be able to solve. How will the machines park so as to occupy the minimum of space?

Chief of Police Dan Cox is head of the committee that will help the boys solve these problems. Cox is assisted by Al Paulsen. The boys will help the Scots greatly by this work and they have volunteered to do it.

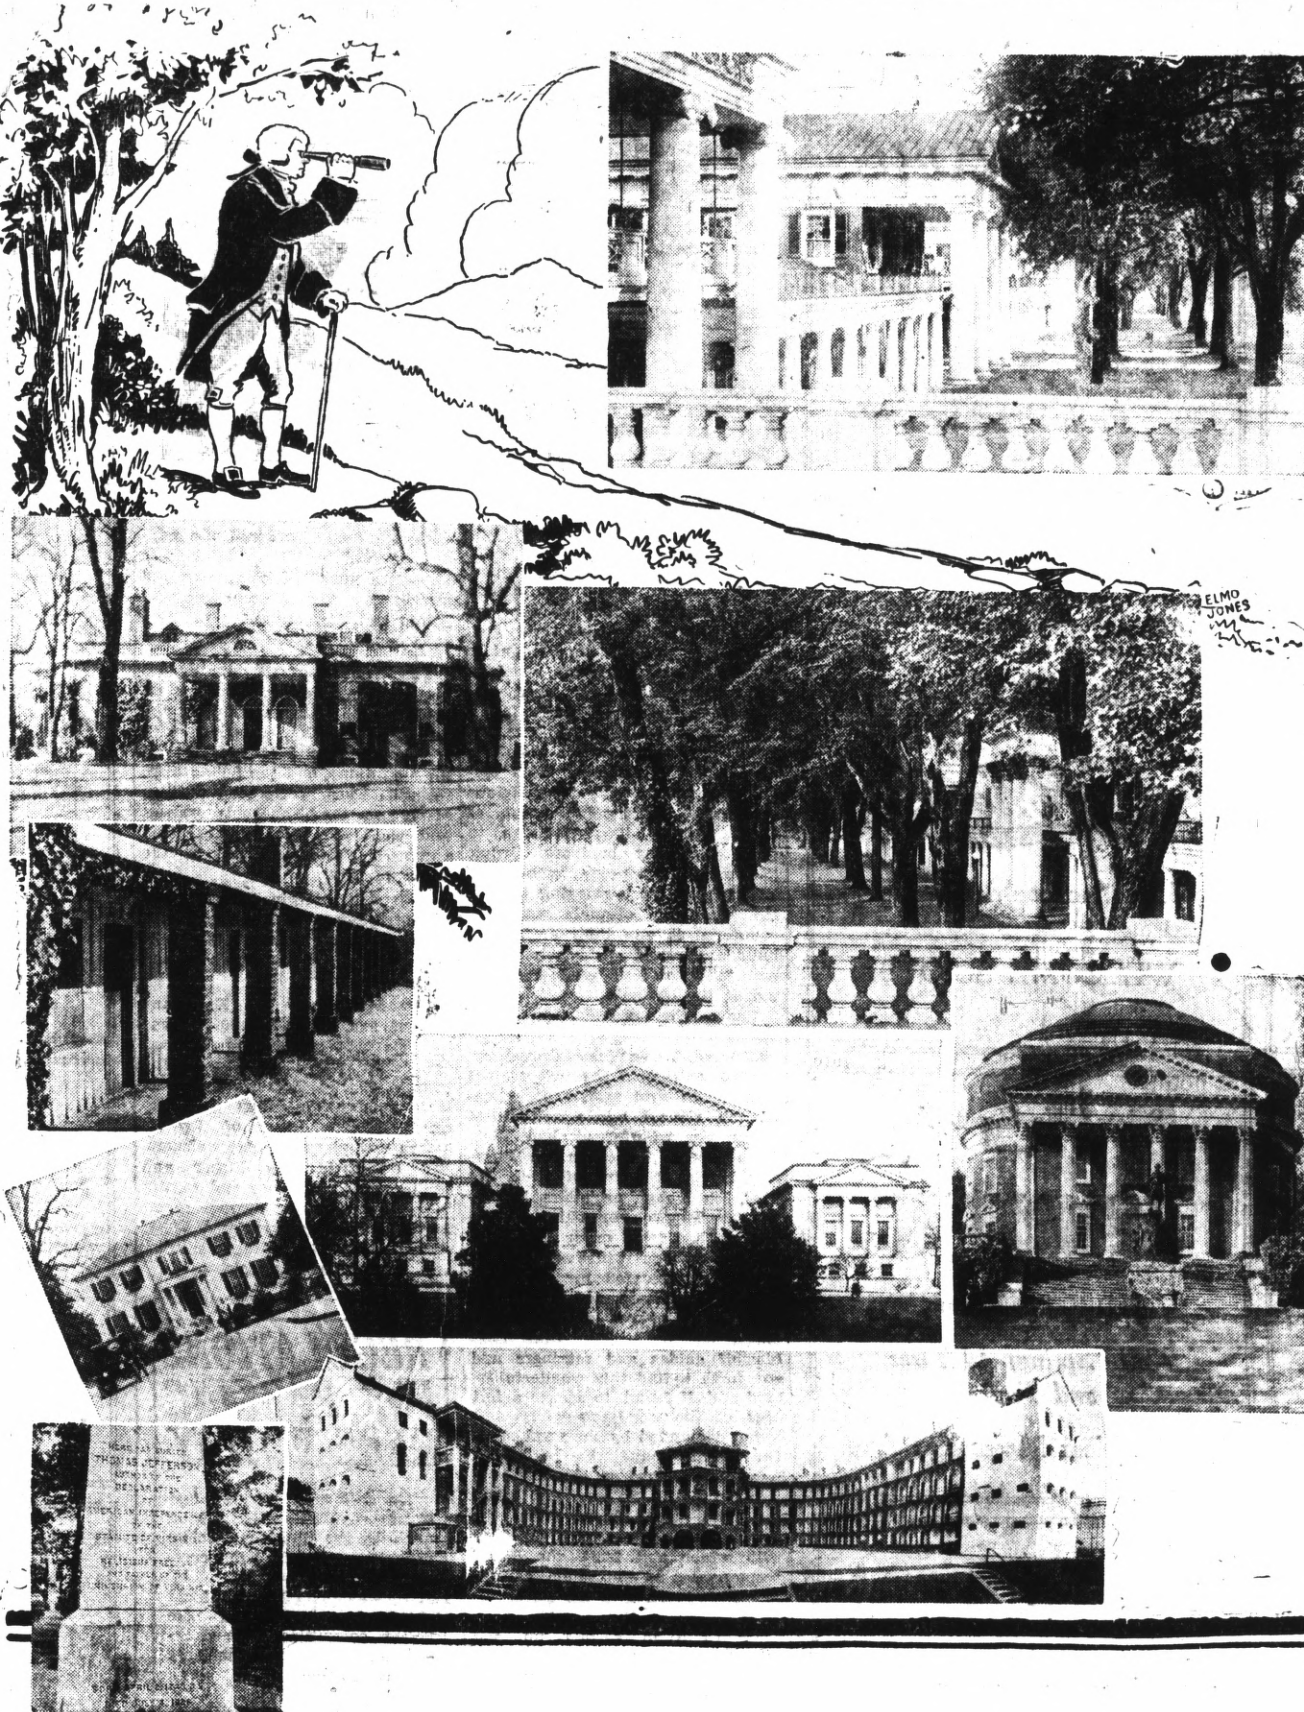

The Scots are grateful for the help that the boys will give them for the labor will be herculean and will aid the visiting Scots to an extent that is impossible to estimate.

JULIAN D. HARRIES

Julian D. Harries is the Supreme Auditor of the Scots who will take a prominent part in the sciot ceremony to be staged here today.

Ceremonial Floor Committee Faced With Hard Work

The ceremonial floor committee handles one of the hardest tasks of all committees. It was their work to take care of the ceremonial that will be given tonight at the Roosevelt Junior high school auditorium.

It was their task to arrange for this particular event which the whole celebration hinges upon. It was hard work, but tonight's ceremonial will show how successful this committee has been in carrying out this great task that was given them by the executive committee.

The success of the ceremonial means the success of the whole affair and the committee has been working to make the affair one that will be long remembered by all.

The committee was ably assisted by Postophori Glissman of San Francisco, who has arranged many of the successful ceremonials that has been given by the San Francisco Scots.

Glissman came over from San Francisco and gave part of his valuable time in showing the committee the way that the ceremonials are carried on.

The committee faced a big odd at the start. This was the first time that they have ever planned a ceremonial of such magnitude and the able assistance of Glissman has proven valuable.

Lud Johnson, has given much time and effort in making the affair such a success and he was assisted by Barney Alloschis, M. Marshall and E. M. Whaley.

duties; their neighbors' assistance and cooperation; the strong grip of a friend to help them over the rough places in life is worth more than a beautiful requiem and unctious sermon and an elaborate pyramid over their remains when dead.

THE RITUAL

The ritualistic work is founded upon an event that occurred about 1124, B. C. In the Aegean Sea was an island called by the Greeks "Chios" and by the Romans "Scio." The inhabitants were Greeks and the Grecian characteristics and form of government were most pronounced. This was evidenced by a deep patriotism and local attachment for their homes. They were in spirit democratic, there being no nobility among them. In a neighboring island was an association among the inhabitants formed for the purpose of worshipping one god. These associations were feudal in character, and while the members were independent they were subject to a central authority in all that concerned religious worship. This association was called a "League of Neighbors." This league was used merely for religious ceremonies, but the inhabitants of Chios applied its principles to their every-day business. Owing to the rugged topography of their island home in journeying to and from when an obstacle was encountered it was their custom to build a pyramid with their bodies and in succession gradually surmount the obstacle.

Under the organization of a "League of Neighbors" the Sciots prospered. Their vineyards and orchards, cultivated through mutual helpfulness and assistance, yielded the richest wines and finest fruits. So widespread had their fame become that even the Pharaoh in Egypt heard of them. He sent his Mohar or tablet bearer, to the Toparch or chief of the city, with a royal order that some of the famous wines and fruits of Scio be secured for the royal banquets and ceremonials at Memphis. The Toparch summoned his Mazai and bade him take unto himself guides and retainers and go forth to find this wonderful island and, if found, to secure a full need of the wondrous wines and fruits, demanded by the royal edict. The Mazai found the island of Scio and formed a close friendship with the Sciots; and when the next wind blew from the north, in galleys richly laden with wines and fruit, the Mazai accompanied by the Sciots, departed on his journey to the Toparch's palace.

An ill wind sprung up and lashed the sea into a fury. They landed on an island to seek shelter from the storm and were surrounded by bandits whose leader was known as "The Chief of the Me."

In the Cretan Labyrinth was confined the Monster Menotaur, who had the head of a bull and the body of a man, and was said to have been the offspring of Pasphae and the bull sent to Minos by Posidon, and where he devoured the youths and maidens sent him every nine years as tribute.

Minos, who it is said, afterwards died and became a judge of torture in Hades, was the king and lawgiver of the island and before him the Sciots were conducted by the Chief of the Me, for sentence. Minos declared that nine of the Sciots should be offered up as a tribute to Minotaur. The Toparch, in the meantime becoming alarmed at the non-arrival of the Mazai with the Sciots, ordered the captain of the guard to take unto himself a guard of Memphites and search for the Mazai and the Sciots and, if found, to give them safe conduct to the Palace.

The captain of the guard and his Memphites arrived on the island in due time, whereupon the Chief of the Me, together with his henchmen and Libyans fled to the mountains, and the Sciots were rescued. They were conducted in safety to the Toparch's palace. And we learn that they received a most pleasant welcome at the River of Joy.

Afterwards within the gates of the city they were welcomed with great acclaim. On the Palace of the Toparch there was written "welcome."

The Sciots and the Egyptians became great friends and it came to pass that at each third moon the Sciots would journey to the Palace of the Toparch; and lo, it is related that they were received at the River of Joy as before and given a royal welcome, and on their way hither and thither, on the journey and among the pyramids there was much feasting and merrymaking. Further the legend saith not.
